

◀ Light takes longer to pass between two points when one is near a massive object. Astronomers confirmed this by bouncing light off Mercury when it was near the Sun and away from it.